

CLOCKWORK

May I introduce you to my charming alarmclock, ticking tick tock ticking.
When I snooze, when I sleep, when my dreams are sweet, then one, two, three it...
...rings and it hurts, I can't bear it, it's whispering „push the button“.
Devil just sent it from hell, I am sure, and I hide myself under my bed.

Day by day I wish that I could sleep one more hour and day by day I try to throw it so far away and I hope it will shatter with one big bang on my wall so that I could sleep ,til I'm so angry with myself.

Dining under palm trees, suddenly waking, hear the tick tock ticking.
When I snooze, when I sleep, when my dreams are sweet, then one, two, three I'm...
...back in the present, I try to bring some parts together like a puzzle.
Soon I begin to see nearly clearly and sweet dreams fall asleep.

Day by day I wish that I could sleep one more hour and day by day I try to throw it so far away and I hope it will shatter with one big bang on my wall so that I could sleep ,til I'm so angry with myself.